

INTRODUCTION TO COGNITIVE CULTURAL STUDIES

Ed. Lisa Zunshine

The Johns Hopkins University Press, forthcoming

Table of Contents

Introduction

Lisa Zunshine, "What is Cognitive Cultural Studies?"

I. Literary Universals

1. Patrick Colm Hogan "Literary Universals"

II. Cognitive Historicism

2. Alan Richardson "Facial Expression Theory from Romanticism to the Present and Beyond"

3. Ellen Spolsky "Making "Quite Anew": Brain Modularity and Creativity"

4. Mary Thomas Crane "Analogy, Metaphor, and the New Science: Cognitive Science and Early Modern Epistemology"

5. Lisa Zunshine "Lying Bodies of the Enlightenment: Theory of Mind and Eighteenth-Century Cultural Studies"

6. Bruce McConachie "Towards a Cognitive Theory of Cultural Hegemony"

III. Cognitive Narratology

7. David Herman "Narrative Theory after the Second Cognitive Revolution"

8. Alan Palmer "Storyworlds and Groups"

9. Lisa Zunshine "Theory of Mind and Experimental Representations of Fictional Consciousness"

10. Blakey Vermeule "Machiavellian Narratives"

IV. Cognitive Approaches in Dialogue with Other Theoretical Approaches (Postcolonial Studies, Ecocriticism, Aesthetics, Post-Structuralism)

11. Patrick Colm Hogan "On Being Moved: Cognition and Emotion in Literature and Film"

12. Nancy Easterlin "Cognitive Ecocriticism: Human Wayfinding, Sociality, and Literary Interpretation"

13. G. Gabrielle Starr "Multi-sensory Imagery"

14. Ellen Spolsky "Darwin and Derrida: Cognitive Literary Theory as a Species of Post-Structuralism"

Works Cited